

Titusville Morning Herald.

Titusville, Wednesday, Jan. 30, 1897.

BREAKING MATTER ON EVERY PAGE.

Varieties.

—There are eight candidates for the Republican nomination for Mayor of Reading. How many for Titusville?

—The regular weekly meeting of the Literary Association is adjourned from this (Wednesday) to Friday evening, an account of the Church Concert.

—The case of Thomas Hoge vs. G. V. Culver, referred to yesterday as to be tried by the Circuit Court at Franklin, has been adjourned till Friday of this week.

—Promises, of the Louisville Journal, tenders his advice to the public. "Never buy goods of those who don't advertise. They sell at little they have to lose."

—George Norris and Thomas Nowell were yesterday held to bail to appear at Meadville for resisting officer Rouse while arresting Thomas Carroll, on Saturday evening last.

—The pit owners of the Monongahela coal regions have reduced the price of digging from four cents per bushel to two and one-half cents, in consequence of which the diggers are on a "strike."

—Mr. John Porter has accepted the challenge of Mr. Joseph V. Kerr, for a pigeon shooting match, for $100 to $500, and has named McKeesport for Washington, Pa., as the place of the contest.

—The Cleveland & Pittsburgh Railroad pays an annual premium of $100 to that engineer who runs a locomotive the greatest number of miles with the least expense. John Gratton, with engine No. 17, won the prize this year.

—A resolution has been introduced in the State Senate instructing the Committee on Education to report a bill regulating the education of the orphan children of soldiers, and to provide of floors to carry out the provisions of the same.

—A new well was struck on Monday last on the Webster lease of the Benuchoff Farm, Western Run. It is called the "Blackly Well" and is pumping about forty barrels a day. The controlling interest is owned by Stewart Bros. of Cherrytree.

—The roof constructed over two of the oil tanks of the Titusville and Philoche Transportation Co. near the railroad depot, collapsed under the heavy weight of snow on Monday, and fell into the tanks. They were only partly filled with oil, and no other damage resulted.

—Notwithstanding the present depression of the anthracite coal trade, arrangements are being made to increase this year's products over last. The old companies are all preparing for augmented tonnage, and new railroads have been projected, some of which will be in operation early in the spring.

—The wide spread prevalence of snow storms this year is well illustrated by the fact that it has fallen during the present season in Louisiana, the sixth time only during the present century. Snow fell in 1780, 1817, 1822, 1831 and 1852. The storms in 1852 and 1853 were the most remarkable, the others slight. Old residents inform us that no winter of equal severity has been experienced in this region for eleven years.

—A. H. Lee, the winner of the Opera House, arrived in Chicago on Saturday and sold the house to Mr. Crosby for $200,000. The following is an exact statement of Mr. Crosby's balance sheet: U. H. Crosby creditor by $10,000 tickets, $5, 150,000; debtor to 30,000 tickets not sold, $150,000; to advertising, $150,000; to commissions, $75,000; to expenses, $100,000; to payments, $15,000; to printing and traveling, $30,000; paid Mr. Lee, $200,000. Total debt, $750,000; profit, $300,000. Value of Opera House, $350,000. Total profit on the undertaking, $150,000.

The Venango Bank Investigation.

The failure of banks in the petroleum region in 1896 is still fresh in the minds of the people. The Legislature did not, at that time, pay much attention to the matter, but the Auditor General of Pennsylvania appointed a committee to examine into the causes which produced the failure of one of them—the Venango Bank. The report of the minority of this committee has never been published. An effort has been made to secure its printing, but, for unexplained reasons, the Legislature, after ordering the printing, almost immediately withdrew its consent. A correspondent furnishes the following abstract of this document:

The Venango Bank was chartered under our laws, and deposited $50,000 in government securities to secure its issues. It was afterwards merged into the Venango "National" Bank, and the Directors ordered $300,000 of the securities to be transferred from Harrisburg to Washington as a back for the new institution. The Hon. C. V. Culver was authorized to make this transfer, and certain parties, signing themselves "agents," "attorneys," and "managers," actually obtained $300,000 of the securities. The transfer took place on March 27, 1896, when the liabilities of the bank were $1,109,351. Its nominal assets were $1,200,045.51, although in reality worth but $340,134. Culver, who owned the bank $691,315 (the sum of the future, and the New Oil and Land Company (under the same auspices) owed $40,527. In addition to these amounts, Culver, Penn. Co., acknowledged the sum of $78,000 to be the balance of the bank's cash on hand. The securities were so small as to be entered on the books. These books, however, were scarcely models, for they stated that the bank had securities to the value of $253,450 deposited at Harrisburg. The securities, however, had been lent there. These same books did not come within half a million of dollars of showing the true indebtedness of the institution when it failed.

After receiving this report, the minority report of the directors of the directors as men whose "fidelity" is unquestioned, and who are recognized by the community as prudent, honest, and upright business men. How, then, did they allow the New Oil and Land Company to be overdrawn by the minority by $50,000? This is explained by the minority by saying that they (the directors) "were the victims of misplaced confidence and astounding imposition."

This report charges that C. V. Culver was the person who, by appointing his brother-in-law cashier, "kept the directors in ignorance of the condition of the bank." This brother-in-law, it is stated, "purposely created the 'committee.'" The report concludes by saying that "the majority of C. V. Culver were conducted on a most gigantic scale. He is either guilty of a criminal recklessness or a most stupendous fraud."

The minority report, it will be seen, gives the Hoge-Meyers view of the controversy, and the former has instituted a criminal suit against Mr. Culver, which is to be tried by the Circuit Court of Venango county, commencing on Friday next. This suit will doubtless throw considerable light upon the subject, and as the proceedings will largely interest the community we purpose to report the trial.

SANFORD'S OPERA TROUPE perform in Corlith Hall tonight and to-morrow night. They have met with great success in all the large cities, and are highly commended by the press. The popularity of this order of entertainments seems quite as decided as when they were a novelty.

Competition has in some cases improved the character of the performances, and relieved them of the coarseness and vulgarity which too commonly attach to such exhibitions. We are assured that the Sanford troupe are exceptionally good in this particular. The manager is one of the pioneers in the profession, and possesses much originality. The company perform in Petroleum Centre on Friday evening.

Legislative Reforms.

The Chamberburg Repository of the 23d inst. in a powerful article on the subject of the recent election of a United States Senator, recommends a Constitutional State Convention as the best way to secure Legislatures who will reflect the wishes of the people. The following extract contains the argument of the editor, Col. McClure:

"There is one simple, practical, effective remedy, and if the people desire it, it is to be had. It is to be had by a Constitutional Convention, and that only, can reach the terrible disease, and if it is to be reached, it is to be reached by a Constitutional Convention. The Convention shall submit the question of a convention to popular decision. It should be demanded by petition, by delegations, by mass-meetings, by the united utterances of an unshaken press, until even the corruptible themselves are forced to the threshold of their masters. Let them demand a convention to incorporate in their organic law provisions substantially as follows:

1. That the Senate shall consist of one hundred members, elected by single districts.

2. That the House of Representatives shall consist of four hundred members, each to be elected in a single district.

3. That the Legislature shall be organized into committees, each committee to be composed of members of both houses, and each committee shall be authorized to hold public hearings, and to report thereon to the full body.

4. That there shall be no special appropriation of money from the treasury to defray the expenses of any committee, except upon a judicial finding.

5. That the members of the Legislature shall be paid five dollars per day, for the period of sixty days; and be prohibited from accepting any honorarium, or extra or adjourned sessions beyond sixty days in the year.

6. That no subordinate officer shall be appointed in either house, or receive any compensation, unless a bill shall have been passed by both branches creating the office and defining its duties.

7. That no bill of any kind shall pass either branch without receiving a majority of the whole vote on a call of the yeas and nays.

Interesting Oil Question.

The Harrisburg correspondence of the Philadelphia Ledger contains the following: "There are numerous oil companies organized under the laws of this State, whose property is beyond our borders. To save appearances they have purchased a few acres in Pennsylvania, but under statutes they are taxed upon the full amount of their capital stock, dividends and income. They have prepared a bill requiring the Auditor General, when not more than one-tenth of their total estate is in this Commonwealth, to charge but one-tenth the taxes now collected. This reduction, however, cannot be made unless the President, Treasurer, and a majority of the Directors shall be citizens. The bill is now being considered by a committee."

During the oil excitement in 1895 many persons who organized companies fitted the par value of their stocks far above the subscription price, and naturally at an enormous increase over the actual cost value of the property. This stock having passed into the hands of innocent third parties, they are now obliged to pay taxes upon their fictitious or par value. This is under the act regulating mining companies, passed in April, 1854, and applies only to companies organized under that law. It is now proposed by Mr. Whann, representing Venango county, to require tax only to be levied on the amount of capital stock actually "paid up," this tax to be collected out of the list net earnings of the companies, and before any dividends are declared.

An Oily Customer Disappointed.—Sundry people on South Franklin street are congratulating themselves on the perfectly justifiable candidate of Mr. John Melting's dog "Salvor," which occurred on Sunday last. Mr. Melting is proprietor of the Railroad Hotel, south of the railroad crossing, and the passengers "Salvor" were said to be kept waiting and wailing on the doorsteps. It was his pleading custom to regard all other dogs who ventured to wag along that he might as well be a trespasser upon his private domain, and he would invariably bark "have and fetch the dog of war" on the slightest imaginable pretext. Nor were his aggressions restricted to his own species; he was addicted to snapping at men and dogs, and had become the special terror of all pedestrians in that locality.

Mr. Frank Temple, a butcher employed at the Fulton market, had thus been much annoyed, and his shepherd dog had been frequently attacked by "Salvor" while patrolling the hotel. On Sunday afternoon Mr. Temple was returning from the slaughter house, accompanied by his dog, and upon reaching the Railroad House "Salvor," as usual, leaped upon the gentle shepherd, and, fastening his jaws upon the neck of the non-resistant, seemed to be enjoying his "best bowl."

Temple decided to end the dispute in a professional way, and accordingly drawing a butcher knife from his belt, inserted the blade several times between the "Salvor's" ribs, and he immediately departed for the hunting grounds of his fathers.

Mr. Melting, who witnessed the performance, was considerably incensed at the unbecoming, and indulged in some very imprudent threats of retaliation; but, judging from the reported provocations and the "Salvor's" evil propensities, Mr. Temple has rid the neighborhood of a fearful abomination, and everybody is glad of it.

THE CONTESTANTS.—The Pittsburgh Gazette says the Grand Jury returned the following bill:

United States vs. Wm. D. Hunt and Marcus Hughes, indicted for passing counterfeit national currency; "Lemon" as to Hunt, and "true bill" as to Hughes. This is the second bill, the first being found to be defective.

The Gazette adds:

Information having been made before Commissioner McCandless against W. D. Hunt and William Hughes of Titusville, for passing counterfeit fractional currency, Colonel Kerr, their counsel, asked the discharge of the defendants, on the ground that the information taken before Commissioner McCandless, of Titusville, had been ignored. He asked the discharge of the accused, and was proceeding to unmindful upon some point, when the court interrupted him by stating that the court had interrupted by the Court, and the defendants (who are now in jail) required to give bail in the sum of $5,000 for their appearance at the May term of this.

A paper published at Brandon, Mississippi, proposes to force capital into the South by repaying all laws imposing a tax on capital invested in cotton factories, and levying a tax on all cotton exported from the State, say of two cents per pound the first year, four cents the next, and increasing it yearly till it reaches twenty cents a pound. This plan, it thinks, "would make New England a barren waste in less than ten years, by transferring every manufacturing from that section to this. They could not retaliate upon us, because they raise nothing there we need. It might operate rather badly upon the planter for a few years, until our home manufactures get in operation, but after that he could afford the payment of the tax by selling his cotton to the manufacturers within the State."

The absurdity of this proposition is palpably apparent. A tax of ten or twenty cents per pound on raw material exported from the State might, for a time, prove prohibitive in its effect, but it would also be a premium offered by the State to stimulate production in other cotton-growing countries. Besides, if Mississippi should levy such a tax, it is by no means certain that her example would be followed by the other cotton-growing States. They might sympathize with such a punitive object, but the inducements to grow cotton for exportation would increase with the enhanced value in the raw material. It would first be necessary to enter into an agreement with these States to levy the same tax on the exported article. But here the Constitution would interfere, section 10, article 1, expressly declaring that "no State will enter into any treaty, alliance or confederation."

COUNTERFEIT GREENBACKS.—New counterfeit five dollar United States Treasury notes (greenbacks), of the issue of March 10, 1892, have just made their appearance in eastern cities, the South having been pretty well flooded with them. The words "United States" have a scratchy appearance. In general appearance, paper and printing, they are well calculated to deceive. A close imitation of one dollar notes is also in circulation. The uses of Chase in the counterfeit is a very different affair from the use of the genuine, and by this "hoax" the counterfeit is known.

REVOLUTIONARY RELICS.—The Legislature has authorized the return to the Hall of Independence, in Philadelphia, the chair occupied by the President of Congress, John Hancock, when the Declaration of Independence was passed, and the table upon which that immortal document was signed. The Historical Society of Philadelphia have accordingly appointed a committee to co-operate with the State and city authorities in such ceremonies as may be appropriate, when these interesting memorials of the Revolution are returned to that city, and placed in the Hall of Independence.

THE ORGAN AND SACRED CONCERT TO-NIGHT.

The public has dwelt with pleasing anticipation for several weeks upon the entertainment announced for this evening at St. James' Memorial Church. Though we have musical talent of a high order in Titusville, it is very seldom demonstrated in the form of a public concert, and hence our citizens are the more eager to avail themselves of such occasions when presented. Sacred music has always been an important part of religious worship. It unquestionably heightens the attractions and the splendor of religious exercises, and we find that a good choir, independent of the qualifications of the church pastor, is a source of attraction in all cities.

The cultivation of a musical taste in a community like our own, resulting as it already has, in the organization of a Musical Association, must find frequent expression in the form most gratifying to the general public, that of organ and sacred concerts like the present, which enlists the co-operation of the best "home talent," irrespective of denominational associations.

We have received a copy of the programme for this evening, which we present entire:

All Series.

A young man in Cleveland, Ohio, who has been confined in an asylum for some time on account of insanity, having partially recovered, was returned to his home, and soon after stabbed his mother with a knife, the wound being of a nature as to render it exceedingly doubtful whether she will recover. The son has been judged in jail for keeping.

Mrs. Jane M. Sweet, of Kennecott, Me., has been indicted for the murder of her husband, Dr. Nathaniel Sweet, last fall, by poisoning him with strychnine. She says that she put it in his whiskey to cure his love for liquor, and that she accidentally gave him an overdose.

There are employed in the manufacture of steel pens, in Birmingham, 800 men and 2,000 women and girls; 90,000 gross of pens are turned out weekly, in which ten tons of steel, worth $15,000, are used. Thirty years ago these pens sold at 50 per gross; they now bring only 1 1/2 to 1 3/4.

A St. Louis dispatch of the 24th states that the militia companies left in Lafayette county, Mo., have been reinforced. Certain Conservatives who protested to the Governor refused to be informed that the first two companies were organizing to go into the same county.

A ranchman, living in the vicinity of Fort Phil. Kearney, who brought the news into Fort Laramie of the late massacre, traveled two hundred miles in three days and nights, and with a trail of blood, food, or change of horse. The poor beast he rode fell dead as soon as the courier dismounted.

The Ganges carries away from the soil of India and delivers into the sea twice as much solid substance as is contained in the Great Pyramids of Egypt. The fravard sweeps off from Bernese sixty-two cubic feet of earth every second of time.

Reck, the cheerful young man from New Hampshire, who shot a woman's corset, with a bullet, (course it did) and who afterwards more judiciously shot himself, is unhappily still alive, and is treated by the same woman he shot at.

A Glasgow girl shakes with a Newfoundland dog on a propelling power. He was so much frightened by the dog that he fell overboard, and was killed by the dog's teeth.

The Russian Treasury at Moscow contains gems and jewels worth the whole Bank of England, and the British crown jewels besides.

Marriages languish in Boston. Only fifteen persons in every one thousand marry.
